The original sweet shop from 1882 was operated by M. Brandstadter, also known as Branka, in Lviv. After operating under the brand name "Hazet" for candy and chocolates, in 1924 K. Avdykovych-Glynska and Andrei Sheptytsky also founded "Fortuna Nova", a sweets factory for Galicia. Following the start of Soviet rule in western Ukraine, the candy enterprises in the area were nationalised and reorganised to make the Kirov Factory and the "Bolshevik" Factory. Kirov was intended for chocolates, candies, and wafers, while Bolshevik was for caramels and flour-based confectionery. It wasn't until 1962 when the Lviv Council of National Economy merged Kirov, Bolshevik, Fortuna Nova, and the confectionery factory in Chortkiv that Svitoch was formally created, initially under the name "Chervona Troianda" (Red Rose) before it... 1838b2e991 == History == 1838b2e991

Teh tarik It is a common street drink culture in Malaysia, where it is considered the country's national drink. The tea is made from a strong brew of black tea blended with condensed milk. Drinks made with Milo and Nescafé may also be served with the tarik treatment by vendors who specialise in teh tarik. It was nominated for intangible cultural heritage food and drinks in 2024 by Malaysia, where it was subsequently listed. 'pulled tea'; Jawi: تیه (تاریق) is a hot milk tea beverage most commonly found in restaurants, outdoor stalls, mamaks and kopitiams in Malaysia, Brunei, Indonesia, Singapore, and Thailand. Its name is derived from the process of repeatedly pouring the drink back and forth from one container into another (or "pulling") with arms extended during preparation, which helps to slightly cool the tea for consumption, and gives it a frothy head. This band started as an acoustic group of three members in 2000. The original members started performing at restaurants, bars and weddings. Although each one of them had different career backgrounds, they were bound together by their passion and enthusiasm for music. In 2002, the label won the Nescafé Big Break award, which was a Nescafé initiative, where the company gives away cash grants to people aged between 16 and 24, who have a dream or idea and need some financial support to make it a reality. The label was granted A$20,000. Below Par became a part of Australian Independent Records Labels Association (AIR)—similar to the Australian Recording Industry Association (ARIA), except independent-based—and then went on to sign Australian bands Something with Numbers and the now defunct For Amusement Only and Last Year's Hero.
