Diffs: [1] [2] [3] Task: This filter would filter out attacks on pages related to furry conventions. A good start would be to add it to members of Category:Furry conventions. Specifically the string "furries are queers" or variations of it would be what is filtered out.

The last common ancestor of all living amniotes (mammals, birds and reptiles) likely possessed a penis. Philipnelson99 (talk) 21:05, 8 March 2023 (UTC)

The term penis applies to many intromittent organs, but not to all. As an example, the intromittent organ of most Cephalopoda is the hectocotylus, a specialized arm, and male spiders use their pedipalps. Even within the Vertebrata, there are morphological variants with specific terminology, such as hemipenes.

In most species of animals in which there is an organ that might be described as a penis, it has no major function other than intromission, or at least conveying the sperm to the female, but in the placental mammals, the penis bears the distal part of the urethra, which discharges both urine during urination and semen during copulation.

Reason: There have been several attacks on pages in this category in recent days. I noticed it today and instead of protecting these pages, a filter would make it so valid edits from users without extended confirmed protection could edit the page. Of course the filter may need to be a little more robust than just this string. Looking at the history of some these pages, this seems to have been going on for quite some time.
