Onceinawhile (talk) 22:17, 23 November 2017 (UTC) 21dd16a1f6 Born in Baltimore, Maryland, to a conservative middle-class family, Milstead developed an early interest in drag while working as a women's hairdresser. By the mid-1960s, he had embraced the city's countercultural scene and befriended Waters, who gave him the name "Divine" and the tagline of "the most beautiful woman in the world, almost". Along with his friend David Lochary, Milstead joined Waters's acting troupe, the Dreamlanders, and adopted female roles for their experimental short films Roman Candles (1966), Eat Your Makeup (1968) and The Diane Linkletter Story (1970). Again in drag, he took a lead role in both of Waters's early full-length movies, Mondo Trasho (1969) and Multiple Maniacs (1970), the latter of which attracted press attention for the group. Milstead next starred in Waters's Pink Flamingos (1972), which was a...

== MarcusBritish personal attacks == 21dd16a1f6 I recently encountered the page for SNL Celebrity Jeopardy while going through wikipedia. I noticed that there is a section that lists the episodes and the name of each character in portrayed in them. Missing was 'Turd Fergusson,' an assumed name used as a gag by Burt Reynolds in one of the episodes. This name should of course be noted parenthetically. So, I made the edit and found an admin warning directing me to the talk page. 21dd16a1f6 == Episodes == 21dd16a1f6 Born and raised in Buenos Aires, Argentina, to a family of Italian origin, Bergoglio was inspired to join the Jesuits in 1958 after recovering from a severe illness. Throughout the talk section, he fails to produce a logical reason why this information should not be included in the episodes section. His main talking-point for me has been that the name was mentioned 'only' four times in the episode, and that other gags are mentioned more frequently in the series. This entirely misses my point. Since the 'episodes' section lists the characters' names it should also, parenthetically, list this assumed name. So what if they did a different sort of gag more times, those gags don... The series started when the creators learned that Star Wars: Episode I - The Phantom Menace would be re-released in 3D and decided to make a parody trailer for it, starting the series as a result of the positive reception the videos received. In 2012, a sister series of Honest Game Trailers began to be published on GameFront (then owned by Break Media, the owner of Screen Junkies), initially with James Heaney as narrator, then took a year-long hiatus before it was returned on Smosh Games (then owned by Defy Media) in 2014, with Jon Bailey serving as narrator for both series. Following Screen Junkies' acquisition by Fandom, Honest Game Trailers left Smosh Games and moved to the Fandom Games YouTube channel.
