Art Talmadge had left Mercury Records and gone to United Artists and when George's Mercury contract expired at the end of 1961, Pappy took him to U. In the 1994 Mercury Jones retrospective, Cup of Loneliness: The Classic Mercury Years, Colin Escott notes, "Mercury lost George just as he was on the verge of ruling the charts. However, Jones' producer and manager Pappy Daily had secured a more lucrative deal with UA. During his tenure with Starday and Mercury, Jones had amassed eleven top-ten hits, with "White Lightning" and "Tender Years" both topping the charts

The Großache is not the only river whose name changes at the border of two countries that share the same language. A variation of its Austrian name is the Große Ache; the Bavarian section is also called the Tiroler Ache. The term Achen is not a plural form, but a peculiarity of the Bavarian dialect. The name Kössener Ache is also used.

Acher The Acher (German pronunciation: ['axɐ]) is a river in the districts of Ortenau and Rastatt, Baden-Württemberg, in southern Germany. It is 53.6 km long The Acher (German pronunciation: ['axɐ]) is a river in the districts of Ortenau and Rastatt, Baden-Württemberg, in southern Germany. 6 km long and flows from the Black Forest to the Rhine in a northwesterly direction, situated between the Rench to the south and the Oos to the north. It is 53

The Acher initially flows northwards, descending sharply. It turns westwards at its confluence with the Seebach, which joins from the north from the Mummelsee below the Hornisgrinde. The Acher then flows through the trough-like valley of Seebach, where the valley reaches a depth of about 550 metres between the Hornisgrinde and the Vogelskopf. In this section, the Acher is also called the Seebach, hinting at the fact that this tributary stream from the Mummelsee was originally considered to be the main headstream of the Acher... The Tannheimer Tal branches off the upper Lech valley as a hanging valley near Weißenbach, runs via the Gaicht Pass and the lake of Haldensee to the Oberjoch Pass in Bavaria. Between the Haldensee and Nesselwängle it runs as a valley-floor divide at around 1,140 m above sea level (AA). East of it, the Nesselwängler Ache, Warpsbach and Weißenbach drain into the Lech, to the west the Berger Ache and Vils rivers flow through it. The Vils runs in a wide bow around the Tannheim Mountains and also empties into the Lech at the town of Vils. The Acher brothers and Messerschmidt formed the group in 1989, in Weilheim in Oberbayern, near Munich, from an earlier, more indie-folk version of the Notwist and the punk band Greatful Punishment. In 1990, they recorded their self-titled debut, a grunge-metal oriented LP. 1992 saw the release of Nook, which has an indie rock sound, while their 1995 album 12, contains their first flirtation with electronics. Martin Gretschnann then joined the group in 1997. Shrink, released in 1998, is a jazz-electro-rock album. In 1998, Cynthia Dall did the vocals for a remix of "Torture Day" by The Notwist. The album Neon Golden (released in 2002) put them on the map for American listeners, with its heartfelt sentiment and more pop-oriented sound. In 2017, before the release of the Two Windows album, Markus Acher left the band. Valerie played in an all-female band called L.B. Page, until 1998, when she released a 7" called Safe Side under the moniker Lali Puna. She was later joined by Markus Acher, already lead singer and guitarist of The Notwist and Tied & Tickled Trio (with whom she was also romantically involved and also formed a side-project called John Yoko), Christoph Brandner, who played drums with Acher in the Tied & Tickled Trio, and keyboardist Florian Zimmer. The source area of the Acher lies on the northeastern mountainside of the Vogelskopf (1,055.8 m), an area marked by cirques which formed during the ice age. The spring, called Acherquelle, lies at a height of 848 m in the vicinity of the Ruhesteinloch, named after the Ruhestein Saddle to the east. It is located between the Vogelskopf and Seekopf (1,054.2 m). The river is known by four different names, each applying to a different section of its course: above Kitzbühel it is the Jochberger Ache, from Kitzbühel to St. Johann in Tyrol it is known as the Kitzbüheler Ache, in its middle reaches as the Großache, a name also used for the entire Austrian section, and in its lower reaches in Germany as the Tiroler Achen. It rises on the Thurn Pass on the territory of Salzburg state, reaches the Tyrolean border after just 400 metres (1,300 ft) and the German border after 55 kilometres (34 mi), discharging 24 kilometres (15 mi) later near Grabenstätt into the Chiemsee lake.

Tiffany is a trainee witch whose growth into her job forms one of the many arcs in the Discworld series. She is the main character in The Wee Free Men, A Hat Full of Sky, Wintersmith, I Shall Wear Midnight and The Shepherd's Crown. Tiffany grows up over the course of the series, from nine years old in The Wee Free Men to being in her late teens in The Shepherd's Crown. == Names == Valerie Trebeljahr, the lead writer and singer, comes from Busan, Korea. The name of the band, meaning Valerie from Busan, references this, as Lali is a diminutive form of Valerie, and Puna is a childish spelling of Busan (which is often transliterated Pusan). She also lived ten years in Portugal before moving to Germany, and that's reflected in some of her songs, featuring lyrics in Portuguese.
