Individual jurisdictions have adopted varied testing protocols, including whom to test, how often to test, analysis protocols, sample collection and the uses of test results. This variation has likely significantly impacted reported statistics, including case and test numbers, case fatality rates and case demographics. Because SARS-CoV-2 transmission occurs days after exposure (and before onset of symptoms), there is an urgent... 808da8a34e

COVID-19 testing COVID-19 testing involves analyzing samples to assess the current or past presence of SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19 and is responsible for COVID-19 testing involves analyzing samples to assess the current or past presence of SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19 and is responsible for the COVID-19 pandemic. It is used to assess disease prevalence, which aids the estimation of the infection fatality rate. Antibody tests (serology immunoassays) instead show whether someone once had the disease. The two main types of tests detect either the presence of the virus or antibodies produced in response to infection. They are less useful for diagnosing current infections because antibodies may not develop for weeks after infection. Molecular tests for viral presence through its molecular components are used to diagnose individual cases and to allow public health authorities to trace and contain outbreaks 808da8a34e

Under the program, medications are tested for safety and stability for extended periods of time in controlled storage conditions. In many cases, medications remain effective for years after their printed expiry dates; a 2006 study published in the Journal of Pharmaceutical Sciences found that two-thirds of 122 medications tested through SLEP remained effective for an average of at least four additional years. As a cost-saving measure, the US military routinely uses a wide range of SLEP tested products past their official shelf life if drugs have been stored properly. In 2023, the DoD reported that the program had helped save the department $1.3 billion on replacing stockpiled medications. 808da8a34e On March 17, 2020, a state of emergency was declared by Premier Doug Ford.
