Meaning is defined as the underlying purpose of the topic or subject at hand, while play itself is defined as a range of voluntary, intrinsically motivated activities normally associated with pleasure and enjoyment. ad92532210 Rubenstein often credits his grandfather as one of his earliest artistic influences. Freedman was a commercial artist, and Rubenstein has written about how meaningful it was to watch him work in his studio as a child. The objects his grandfather left behind—especially those connected to wartime experiences—later became the basis for still-life paintings that explore memory, trauma, and family history. ad92532210 Rubenstein was born to Seth Rubenstein, a Brooklyn-based trusts and estates lawyer. His grandfather, E. Ivan Rubenstein, was a judge on the Brooklyn Supreme Court. ad92532210

Constructionism (learning theory) In this sense, constructionism is connected with experiential learning and builds on Jean Piaget's epistemological theory of constructivism. Students learn through participation Constructionist learning is a theory of learning centred on mental models. Students learn through participation in project-based learning where they make connections between different ideas and areas of knowledge facilitated by the teacher through coaching rather than using lectures or step-by-step guidance. Constructionism advocates student-centered, discovery learning where students use what they already know to acquire more knowledge. Constructionism advocates student-centered, discovery learning where students use what they already know to acquire more knowledge. Further, constructionism holds that learning can happen most effectively when people are active in making tangible objects in the real world ad92532210
