Most of the site is now owned by the State of California and is managed by the 31st District Agricultural Association, an independent state agency. The fire started in Woolsey Canyon on the Santa Susana Field Laboratory property, and burned 80 percent of the site, a complex of industrial research and development buildings belonging to Boeing, in the Santa Susana Mountains above the Simi Valley near the boundary between Los Angeles and Ventura counties. the San Fernando Valley and the Conejo Valley was closed as the fire crossed and headed into the rugged Santa Monica Mountains.
