Bernese Mountain Dog The breed was formally recognized in 1912. The Bernese Mountain Dog, German: Berner Sennenhund or Dürrbächler, is a large dog breed originating from the canton of Bern, Switzerland and the Swiss Alps. The name Berner (or Bernese in English) refers to the breed's area of origin in the canton of Bern, and Sennenhund is derived from the German Senne ("alpine pasture") and Hund ("hound/dog"), as they accompanied the alpine herders and dairymen called Senne (m pl; Senn, m sg). It is one of four Sennenhund-type breeds, with ancestral roots in Roman mastiffs. Historically used as a general farm dog, the large Sennenhunde also pulled carts as draft animals

Dogs and the modern gray wolf share a common ancestor. Also called the domestic dog, it was selectively bred during the Late Pleistocene by hunter-gatherers. The latter reach maturity at a slightly older age than smaller breeds, with giant breeds reaching adulthood at around two years old compared to the norm of around 13-15 months for other breeds. The accelerated rate of growth required by the drastic change in size exhibited in giant breeds is speculated by scientists at the American Kennel Club to lead to a higher risk of abnormal cell growth and
