Craton Cratons are composed of ancient crystalline basement rocks covered by younger sedimentary rocks. Having often survived cycles of merging and rifting of continents, cratons are generally found in the interiors of tectonic plates; the exceptions occur where geologically recent rifting events have separated cratons and created passive margins along their edges. They have a thick crust and deep lithospheric roots extending several hundred kilometres into Earth's mantle. This crust consists of shields and platforms. They have a thick crust and deep lithospheric roots extending several hundred kilometres into In geology, a craton (KRAYT-on, KRAT-on, or KRAY-tən; from Ancient Greek κράτος (kratos) 'strength') is an old and stable part of continental lithosphere (the Earth's two topmost layers, the crust and the lithospheric mantle). crystalline basement rocks covered by younger sedimentary rocks. The cave is best known for the Upper Paleolithic rock paintings and drawings (more than 190, mostly in a precarious state of preservation), including the only known prehistoric painting of a (two-humped) camel. They were added to the World Heritage List in 2025. Approximately 30–50 images are relatively well-preserved. The most famous of them—of mammoths, horses, rhinoceroses, bison, and a camel—are located quite far from the entrance (300 meters and more). These images are made with red ochre, sometimes with outlines in charcoal. 57573de742 Deciphering the name kadugudi: Kadugudi is a combination of two words kadu and gudi. Looking into the Kannada grammar we understand that, when two words are joined, the first letter of the second word transforms into the next consonant. Hence Kadu+Gudi (ಕಡು+ಗುಡಿ) becomes Kadugudi (ಕಡುಗುಡಿ). 57573de742
