John Brown (servant) The exact nature of his relationship with Victoria has remained the subject of great speculation by contemporaries and historians today. and that she therefore viewed him as more than a servant, but also as a good friend and confidant. He was appreciated by many (including the Queen) for his competence and companionship, and resented by others (most notably her son and heir apparent, the future Edward VII, the rest of the Queen's children, ministers, and the palace staff) for his influence and informal manner. There is, however, no evidence that Brown and Victoria John Brown (8 December 1826 – 27 March 1883) was a Scottish personal attendant and favourite of Queen Victoria for many years after working as a gillie for Prince Albert 60a920151b
