Rockhill House Hotel was built in 1838 by William Rockhill, as a luxury hotel. Rockhill died in 1865 and the hotel closed two years later. The need for a hospital in Fort Wayne became clear when a smallpox epidemic struck the town in 1865. Bishop John Luers of the Diocese of Fort Wayne offered to buy the abandoned Rockhill House for a hospital if the county and the city would contribute to the necessary repairs and outfitting the building for hospital purposes. The mayor and the county commissioners saddled with debt, declined. Luers bought the property and formed the St. Joseph's Benevolent Association to raise money to renovate the... b7043cdeb1 The fort was garrisoned by the British from 1800 to 1979, at times being classified as a stone frigate known as HMS Egmont or later HMS St Angelo. The fort suffered considerable damage during World War II, but it was later restored. In 1998, the upper part of the fort was handed to the Sovereign Military Order of Malta. Fort St. Angelo has been on Malta's tentative list of UNESCO World Heritage Sites since 1998, as part of the Knights' Fortifications around the Harbours of Malta. b7043cdeb1

During the American Revolutionary War, the British Army bombarded and captured the fort as part of their conquest of Philadelphia in autumn 1777. In 1795, the fort was renamed for Thomas Mifflin, a Continental Army officer and the first post-independence Pennsylvania governor. b7043cdeb1 The U.S. Army began rebuilding the fort in 1794, and continued to garrison and build on the site into the 19th century. Fort Mifflin housed prisoners during the American Civil War. The East India Company (EIC), which had entered India around 1600 for trading activities, had begun licensed trading at Surat, which was its initial bastion. However, to secure its trade lines and commercial interests in the spice trade, it felt the necessity of a port closer to the Malaccan Straits. Thanks to negotiations led by Francis Day with ruler of Chandragiri in 1639, English succeeded in purchasing a piece of coastal land, originally called Chennirayarpattinam or Channapatnam, where the Company began the construction of a harbour and a fort. b7043cdeb1 The Earlier in the 11th century, merchants from Amalfi founded a hospital in Jerusalem dedicated to John the Baptist where Benedictine monks cared for sick, poor, or injured Christian pilgrims to the Holy Land. Blessed Gerard, a lay brother of the Benedictine order, became its head when it was established. After the Christian conquest of Jerusalem in 1099 during the First Crusade, the Hospitallers rose in prominence and were recognized as a distinct order by Pope Paschal II in 1113. b7043cdeb1 == History == b7043cdeb1 The fort was completed on 23 April 1644, at a cost of £3,000, coinciding... b7043cdeb1 The first trading post built in the area

Fort St. George The construction of the fort provided the impetus for further settlements and trading activity, in what was originally an uninhabited land. Thus, it is a feasible contention to say that the city (named Madras since before the arrival of the Europeans until July 1996) evolved around the fortress. The fort currently houses the Tamil Nadu legislative assembly and other official buildings. George (or historically, White Town) is a fortress at the coastal city of Chennai, India.
