Scandals of the Grant administration Starting with the Black Friday (1869) gold speculation ring, corruption would be discovered in seven federal departments. At times, however, Grant appointed various cabinet members who helped clean up the executive corruption. The Liberal Republicans, a political reform faction that bolted from the Republican Party in 1871, attempted to defeat Grant for a Ulysses S. Nepotism, although legally unrestricted at the time, was prevalent, with over 40 family members benefiting from government appointments and employment. In 1872, Senator Charles Sumner, labeled corruption in the Grant administration. Grant, ever trusting of his chosen associates, had strong bonds of loyalty to those he considered friends. Taking over the House in 1875, the Democratic Party had more success in investigating, rooting out, and exposing corruption in the Grant Administration. Grant was influenced by political forces of both reform and corruption. The standards in many of his appointments were low, and charges of corruption were widespread.
