Beyond the Pleasure Principle It marks a major turning point in the formulation of his drive theory, where Freud had previously attributed self-preservation in human behavior to the drives of Eros and the regulation of libido, governed by the pleasure principle. Revising this as inconclusive, Freud theorized beyond the pleasure principle, newly considering the death drives (or Thanatos, the Greek personification of death) which refers to the tendency towards destruction and annihilation, often expressed through behaviors such as aggression, repetition compulsion, and self-destructiveness. ‘daemonic’ power, likely alluding to the Latin motto errare humanum est, perseverare autem diabolicum (‘to err is human, to persist [in committing errors] Beyond the Pleasure Principle (German: Jenseits des Lustprinzips) is a 1920 essay by Sigmund Freud 18ef5d7d96

I apologise for the 11th-hour candidate statement. To be honest, I was not planning on running this year; my real-life schedule next year is likely to take away much of my day-to-day editing, and I thought that this would make it too difficult to continue on ArbCom for another term. However, after reading something that CaptainEek mentioned a few days ago, I realised that I will still have time to dedicate to ArbCom, even if my daily editing rate decreases somewhat; regardless of how often I am able to edit Wikipedia I will still have time to read discussions and come to a final decision based on the policies and guidelines in which we all must operate. With the exception of an unusually stressful January this year (and the odd week-long holiday), I have been active for my entire ArbCom career and do not expect that to change if re... 18ef5d7d96 == References == 18ef5d7d96 |A=}} 18ef5d7d96 {{ACE Question 18ef5d7d96 Zackomode (talk · contribs · deleted contribs · logs · filter log · block user · block log) 18ef5d7d96

The essay, marking Freud's major revision of his drive theory, elaborates on the struggle between two opposing drives. In the first few sections, Freud describes these as Eros, which produces creativity, harmony, sexual connection, reproduction, and self-preservation; and the "death drives" (what some call "Thanatos"), which brings destruction, repetition, aggression, compulsion, and self-destruction. 18ef5d7d96 == Freud == 18ef5d7d96 This list is an automatically updated combination of the twenty lists of Latin phrases starting by a given letter. 18ef5d7d96 Hello, for those who do not know me, I am Primefac. I have been an editor since 2012, subsequently being granted the administrative, oversight, and bureaucratic permissions over the years, before being elected to ArbCom in 2020. In addition to Arbitration work I am most heavily involved in TfD, AfC, history mergers, and copyright violations. 18ef5d7d96 As a "key component in Freud's understanding of mental life, 'repetition compulsion' ... describes the pattern whereby people endlessly repeat patterns of behaviour which were difficult or distressing in earlier life". 18ef5d7d96

Repetition compulsion Repetition compulsion can also take the form of dreams in which memories and feelings of what happened are repeated, and in cases of psychosis, may even be hallucinated. This may take the form of symbolically or literally re-enacting the event, or putting oneself in situations where the event is likely to occur again. "daemonic compulsion", likely alluding to the Latin motto errare humanum est, perseverare autem diabolicum ("to err is human, to persist [in committing such errors] Repetition compulsion is the unconscious tendency of a person to repeat a traumatic event or its circumstances 18ef5d7d96

Essentially, the pattern is one of blindly replacing certain words and phrases with the user's preferred word or phrase, even when this breaks grammar, breaks wikilinks, introduces inaccuracy, or changes a direct quote. The user's editing frequency seems to be increasing, so this strikes me as a good time to make an impression, and hopefully save a lot of later cleanup effort. —swpbT • go beyond • bad idea 16:47, 1 September 2020 (UTC) 18ef5d7d96
