Geisel created the book in response to a debate in the United States about literacy in early childhood and the ineffectiveness of traditional primers such as those featuring Dick and Jane. Geisel was asked to write a more entertaining primer by William Spaulding, whom he had met during World War II and who was then director of the education division at Houghton Mifflin. However, because Geisel was already under contract with Random House, the two publishers agreed to a deal: Houghton Mifflin published the education edition, which was sold to schools, and Random House published the trade edition, which was sold in bookstores.

The Cat in the Hat Comes Back In the book, the Cat in the Hat leaves a pink stain in the bathtub and spreads it around the house while cleaning it. Published by Random House as one of its five original Beginner Books, it is the sequel to The Cat in the Hat (1957). Seuss. The book uses under 300 distinct words with a plot inspired by Geisel's earlier story "The Strange Shirt Spot" (1951). He unveils a series of increasingly small cats from beneath his hat until the smallest one lifts his hat and unleashes a force called Voom that cleans away the pink stain. Published The Cat in the Hat Comes Back is a 1958 children's book written and illustrated by American author Theodor Geisel under his pen name Dr. The children are quicker to confront the Cat compared to the first book, and the character of Sally engages more with other characters instead of staying silent.
