In 1989, Chris Blackwell sold Island Records to PolyGram, resulting in a remarketing of the Island back catalogue on compact disc under the Island Masters brand. c31d1e64bb At a page bearing "Copyright © 2010 The Associated Press" we find the article "Rescuers race to reach 32 trapped in China mine" which is one of a number of places i've seen/heard wordings like "The 115 miners survived for eight days underground by eating sawdust, tree bark, paper and even coal." A few have said ambiguous things like "staved off hunger", but i think it's widely known that unlike cattle, humans lack both the enzymes to digest cellulose, and the ability to harbor (as cattle do) the bacteria that do have the enzymes. I assume that putting some non-digestible bulk into your digestive tract may do your spirits some good, and possibly provide some respite from the sensation of "gnawing" hunger (incipient starvation), but is it possible that there's any benefit in terms of providing calories? My bet is that even if there's a tiny amount of sugar-bearing sap in sawdust, or of digestible substances in bark, the energy required to synthesize and excrete HCl and other digestive fluids is going to outweigh the energy extractable from the sawdust or bark. (This is not even weighing in the hazard of poisoning by bark... c31d1e64bb Last word(s), name and short description, date of death, circumstances around their death (if applicable), and a reference. c31d1e64bb
