The school was part of one of the oldest hospitals in London, St Thomas's Hospital established in 1173 but whose roots can be traced to the establishment of St Mary Overie Priory in 1106. According to historical records St Thomas's Hospital Medical School was founded in about 1550. It was admitted as a school of the University of London in 1900 but remained a constituent part of St Thomas's Hospital until 1948 when it formally became part of the university. In 1982, it merged with the medical school at Guy's Hospital to form the United Medical and Dental Schools of Guy's and St Thomas's Hospitals. In turn UMDS was absorbed by King's College London School of Medicine and Dentistry, but the dentists have since been split out into The Dental Institute. 9599503680 St John's College, University of Queensland, a residential college on the St Lucia campus of the university 9599503680 == History == 9599503680 == History == 9599503680 St John's Regional College, is a Roman Catholic secondary school in Dandenong, Victoria 9599503680

St John's Theological College, Melbourne, a former Anglican theological college in Melbourne, Victoria 9599503680 == History == 9599503680 The Catholic Church in India had long recognised the need to establish a medical college to complement its educational and social welfare institutions. Although the proposal was initially delayed because of its complexity, it was actively pursued by the Catholic Bishops' Conference of India (CBCI). At the request of the CBCI, Archbishop Louis Mathias prepared reports in 1954 and 1956 outlining the project's requirements and implementation. In September 1960, the CBCI resolved to establish a medical college with an attached teaching hospital in Bangalore. With the approval of Pope John XXIII, the institution was named St. John's Medical College after his patron saint, St. John the Baptist, and opened in temporary premises in July 1963. 9599503680 Saint John's College, Whyalla, formerly a Roman Catholic secondary school in South Australia 9599503680 St John's Theological College, Perth, a former Anglican theological college in Perth, Western Australia 9599503680 == Recognition == 9599503680 The college was built in honor of John the Apostle, one of the Twelve apostles of Jesus. 9599503680 == Australia == 9599503680 St John's College, Woodlawn, a Roman Catholic secondary school, near Lismore, New South Wales 9599503680 The College was designated by the Catholic Bishops of India as the
