High heels spread from equestrian origins with the 10th century Persian galesh to wider fashion use. In early 17th-century Europe, high heels were a sign of masculinity and high social status. Towards the end of the century, the trend began to spread to women's fashion. By the 18th century, high-heeled shoes had split along gender lines. By this time, heels for men were chunky squares attached to riding boots or tall formal dress boots, while women's high heels were narrow, pointy, and often attached to slipper-like dress shoes (similar to modern heels). By the 20th century, high heels with a slim profile represented... 89edc901cf == Background == 89edc901cf In sports in which a player

"We Got the Beat" and "Lust to Love". According to Caffey, she started the song and Wiedlin helped her finish it not long after she joined the band. Caffey said that originally the song "was more pop, but we still couldn't play very well, so we kind of created a new sound: melodic but raw." Caffey said that she was nervous about bringing a pop song to the band since until then the Go-Go's were primarily a punk rock group. According to Caffey: I brought in a song called "How Much More." I was really scared because it's super pop and it's about a relationship. I was like, "Well, I'm either going to get fired from the band, or maybe they'll really like it!"...Jane [Wiedlin, rhythm guitarist/backing vocalist] immediately jumped on board and helped me... 89edc901cf
