Persimmon agreed to get planning permission, build some residences on Chartbrook's land at 1 to 9 Hardwicks Way, Wandsworth, and then sell the properties. Chartbrook would pay for it, subject to a balancing payment or "additional residential payment" (ARP) defined as "23.4% of the price achieved for each residential unit in excess of the minimum guaranteed residential unit value less the costs and incentives". This would be paid by Persimmon to Chartbrook. Chartbrook calculated this to mean £4,484,862 but Persimmon said on a proper construction the amount was £897,051. Persimmon argued that even if they were wrong on construction of the document, rectification should be granted, and if not... 9ed4978a6b

Persimmon Blackbridge Her novels follow characters that are very similar to Blackbridge's own life experiences, allowing her to write honestly about her perspective. Blackbridge has won many awards for her work exploring her identity and the complexities that come with it.

Blackbridge's struggle with her mental health has become a large part of her practice, and she uses her experience with mental health institutions to address her perspective on them. She identifies herself as a lesbian, a person with a disability, and a feminist. Her contributions to projects like this help destigmatize the attitudes towards people with disabilities. Persimmon Blackbridge (born 1951) is a Canadian writer and artist whose work focuses on feminist, lesbian, disability and mental health issues. Her work explores these intersections through her sculptures, writing, curation and performance. Their landmark exhibition was called Drawing the Line and was first held at Vancouver's Women in Focus Gallery in 1988. Their photographs depicted a continuum of lesbian sexual practice ranging from kissing to bondage to voyeurism. The project encouraged gallery viewers to comment on what they saw and how it made them feel by writing directly on the walls around the prints; allowing the viewer to "draw the line" and examine their ideas and beliefs about different sexual behaviors. "Drawing the Line" was made in response to the "porn wars" of the late 80's-the feminist debate of if female sexual imagery was more oppressive to women, or if it was empowering to women. 9ed4978a6b Davidson was educated at Ampleforth College. He was a pageboy at the Coronation of Elizabeth II and nine years later worked as a labourer on London's Blackwall Tunnel. 9ed4978a6b

The company is named after a horse which won the 1896 Derby and St. Leger for the Prince of Wales (the future Edward VII). After leaving George Wimpey, Davidson had formed Ryedale Homes in 1965, selling it to Comben Homes in 1972 for £600,000. Davidson restarted development again in the Yorkshire area; Persimmon began to expand regionally with the formation of an Anglian division in 1976 followed by operations in the Midlands and the south-west. In 1984, Persimmon acquired Tony Fawcett's company Sketchmead; Fawcett had been a director of Ryedale and he became deputy managing director at Persimmon. The enlarged company was floated on the London Stock Exchange in 1985, by which time the Company was building around 1,000 houses per year. 9ed4978a6b
