"Injection 4b2a4d6cef I stumbled across Anglo-Vietnamese conflict (1808) a couple of weeks ago, and was struck by its claim that a British expeditionary force had been repelled by a local force with loss, yet there appeared to be no sources focusing on the Royal Navy to substantiate what should be readily verifiable losses. I went so far as to order a copy of one of the sources cited, The Mandarin Road to Old Hue by Alistair Lamb, and found that the page references made no mention of anything like that, or even pertained to that year. I approached Laska666 (talk · contribs) with my concern [1] and they altered the sourcing [2]. Another editor alluded to past issues that I haven't been able to track down [3], and I am starting to think that there are broader issues with this editor. I've tagged the article as a possible hoax and will send it to AfD shortly, but I am starting to think there is a broader pattern here. Other eyes on this editor's articles would be appreciated, preferably with subject knowledge of Vietnamese history.
