

41 Weeks In Months

The NBA began awarding the Player of the Month and Player of the Week distinctions during the 1979–80 season. The Player of the Month was first awarded to Moses Malone in November 1979 and Player of the Week to Julius Erving in October 1979. Initially, only one player in the entire league was awarded each week, but since the 2001–02 season, at least two players are selected, one from the Eastern Conference and another from the Western Conference. On rare occasions, the award has been shared by two or more players. One instance occurred in January 2015, when the Atlanta Hawks starting five (Al Horford, Kyle Korver, Jeff Teague, DeMarre Carroll and Paul Millsap) were named co-recipients of the Player of the Month award for leading the team to a 17–0 record. 940be32db7 For her short-range self-defense, especially for defense against enemy anti-ship missiles, Arkansas carried two automated Phalanx radar-directed 20 millimeters (0.79 in) rapid-fire guns. Singer Deryck Whibley told Kerrang! that one night when he was 18, he and his friend, guitarist Dave Baksh, were going to drive to downtown Toronto to hang out. Baksh was very late in picking Whibley up, and Whibley started playing around with his guitar while sitting by the window and waiting. The riff came first, and he started improvising verses and the chorus, and within three or four minutes, had come up with everything but the guitar solo and bridge. He recorded it on his small recorder before Baksh finally arrived, and didn't think much of it. He finally got around to finishing the whole song a few months later. 940be32db7
