Irreducible fraction In higher mathematics, "irreducible fraction" may also refer to rational fractions such that the numerator and the denominator are coprime polynomials. An irreducible fraction (or fraction in lowest terms, simplest form or reduced fraction) is a fraction in which the numerator and denominator are integers An irreducible fraction (or fraction in lowest terms, simplest form or reduced fraction) is a fraction in which the numerator and denominator are integers that have no other common divisors than 1 (and −1, when negative numbers are considered). In other words, a fraction $\frac{a}{b}$ is irreducible if and only if a and b are coprime, that is, if a and b have a greatest common divisor of 1. Every rational number can be represented as an irreducible fraction with positive denominator in exactly one way d7b50f892a

Lethal dose in a dose, infective doses may be expressed in terms of biological assay, such as the number of LD50's to some test animal. In biological warfare infective In toxicology, the lethal dose (LD) is an indication of the lethal toxicity of a given substance or type of radiation. The LD may be based on the standard person concept, a theoretical individual that has perfectly "normal" characteristics, and thus not apply to all sub-populations. The lethal concentration is a lethal dose measurement used for gases or particulates. Because resistance varies from one individual to another, the "lethal dose" represents a dose (usually recorded as dose per kilogram of subject body weight) at which a given percentage of subjects will die d7b50f892a
