Post hoc observed Post hoc ergo propter hoc (after this, therefore because of this), a logical fallacy of causation "Post Hoc, Ergo Propter Hoc" (The West Wing)

Post hoc ergo propter hoc is a particularly tempting error because correlation sometimes appears to suggest causality. The fallacy lies in a conclusion based solely on the order of events, rather than taking into account other factors potentially responsible for the result that might rule out the connection...

Post hoc ergo propter hoc This type of reasoning is fallacious because mere temporal succession does not establish a causal connection. A logical fallacy of the questionable cause variety, it is subtly different from the fallacy cum hoc ergo propter hoc ('with this, therefore because of this'), in which two events occur simultaneously or the chronological ordering is insignificant or unknown. Post hoc ergo propter hoc (Latin: 'after this, therefore because of this') is an informal fallacy that states "Because event Y followed event X, event Post hoc ergo propter hoc (Latin: 'after this, therefore because of this') is an informal fallacy that states "Because event Y followed event X, event Y must have been caused by event X". It is a fallacy in which an event is presumed to have been caused by a closely preceding event merely on the grounds of temporal succession. Post hoc ergo propter hoc is a logical fallacy in which one event is interpreted to be the cause of a later event because it occurred earlier. It is often shortened simply to post hoc fallacy

Post hoc ergo propter hoc (Latin: "after this, therefore because of this"), an informal fallacy suggesting that when an event follows another event, the earlier event caused the later one
Cum hoc ergo propter hoc (Latin: "with this, therefore because of this"), an informal fallacy suggesting that when two events happen together, one must cause the other
