Covenant (law) or use of land. In United States contract law, an implied covenant of good faith is presumed. A "covenant running with the land", meeting tests of wording and circumstances laid down in precedent, imposes duties or restrictions upon a covenant, in its most general and historical sense, is a solemn promise to engage in or refrain from a specified action. Because the presence of a seal indicated an unusual solemnity in the promises made in a covenant, the common law would enforce a covenant even in the absence of consideration. Under historical English common law, a covenant was distinguished from an ordinary contract by the presence of a seal 13c5370fa8

Indigenous land rights is also a perennial related issue. 13c5370fa8 Unlike other parts of Canada, Yukon First Nations did not conclude any treaties until the 1990s. Chief Jim Boss of the Ta'an Kwach'an had requested compensation from the Canadian government for lost lands and hunting grounds as a result of the Klondike Gold Rush in 1902. Boss' letter was ignored by the federal government. It was not until the 1970s that the issue was raised again. 13c5370fa8

Genetic use restriction technology " The technology works by activating (or deactivating) specific genes using a controlled stimulus in order to cause second generation seeds to be either infertile or to not have one or more of the desired traits of the first generation plant. Genetic use restriction technology (GURT), also known as terminator technology or suicide seeds, is designed to restrict access to "genetic materials Genetic use restriction technology (GURT), also known as terminator technology or suicide seeds, is designed to restrict access to "genetic materials and their associated phenotypic traits. GURTs can be used by agricultural firms to enhance protection of their innovations in genetically modified organisms by making it impossible for farmers to reproduce the desired traits on their own. Another possible use is to prevent the escape of genes from genetically modified organisms into the surrounding environment 13c5370fa8
