Born in Stonewall, Texas, Johnson worked as a teacher and a congressional aide before winning election to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1937. In 1948, he was controversially declared the winner in the Democratic primary for the U.S. Senate election in Texas before winning the general election. He became Senate majority whip in 1951, Senate Democratic leader in 1953 and majority leader in 1954. Senator Kennedy bested Johnson and his other rivals for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination before surprising many by offering to make Johnson his vice presidential running mate. The Kennedy-Johnson ticket won the general election. Johnson assumed the presidency in 1963, after Kennedy was assassinated.

Johnson Doctrine
"communist government" in the Western Hemisphere. It is an extension of the Eisenhower and Kennedy Doctrines. Johnson contextualized the proclamation through the lens of the revolution in the Dominican Republic, citing The Johnson Doctrine, enunciated by United States president Lyndon B. During Johnson's presidency, the U. S. Johnson after the country's intervention in the Dominican Republic in 1965, declared that domestic revolution in the Western Hemisphere would no longer be a local matter when the object is the establishment of a "communist dictatorship". again began interfering in the internal affairs of sovereign nations, particularly Latin America (reversing the previous Good Neighbor policy of the decades prior).
