In water, by altering the autoionization equilibrium, bases yield solutions in which the hydrogen ion activity is lower than it is in pure water, i.e., the water has a pH higher than 7.0 at standard conditions. A soluble base is called an alkali if it contains and releases OH^- ions quantitatively. Metal oxides, hydroxides, and especially alkoxides are basic, and conjugate bases of weak acids...

In 1884, Svante Arrhenius proposed that a base is a substance which dissociates in aqueous solution to form hydroxide ions OH^- . These ions can react with hydrogen ions (H^+ according to Arrhenius) from the dissociation of acids to form water in an acid-base reaction. A base was therefore a metal hydroxide such as NaOH or $\text{Ca}(\text{OH})_2$. Such aqueous hydroxide solutions were also described by certain characteristic properties. They are slippery to the touch, can taste bitter, and change the color of pH indicators (e.g., turn red litmus paper blue).

Text mining (2005), there are three perspectives of text mining: information extraction, data mining, and knowledge discovery in databases (KDD). " Written resources may include websites, books, emails, reviews, and articles. According to Hotho et al. High-quality information is typically obtained by devising patterns and trends by means such as statistical pattern learning. 'High quality' in text mining usually refers to some combination of relevance, novelty, and interest. It involves "the discovery by computer of new, previously unknown information, by automatically extracting information from different written resources. Typical text mining tasks include text categorization, text clustering, concept/entity extraction, production of granular taxonomies, sentiment. It involves "the discovery by computer

Text mining, text data mining (TDM) or text analytics is the process of deriving high-quality information from text. Text mining usually involves the process of structuring the input text (usually parsing, along with the addition of some derived linguistic features and the removal of others, and subsequent insertion into a database), deriving patterns within the structured data, and finally evaluation and interpretation of the output.
