Celebrity Mole Hawaii was most recently reran as a marathon on Fox Reality on March 1, 2008. The announced maximum kitty for the season was $500,000, though the absolute maximum was slightly more than that. The final group kitty was $203,000. Unlike previous seasons, the show was produced live, with the challenges occurring over a weekend in New Zealand. Afterwards, the players were flown into Sydney for a live quiz and elimination on Thursdays. The live eliminations occurred at Sevens's Martin Place Studios - which also hosts many of Seven's news programs. This also meant that the seclusion of the players, normally a standard feature of The Mole, was broken, as the players had access to the outside world - including being able to communicate to friends and family while in Sydney, watch the produced episode, and search the internet for clues. == Show Details == There was no 2004 season due to poor ratings from the third and fourth seasons but the show was revived...

Mouse is considered wise, longsuffering, encouraging, and kind-hearted, whereas Mole can be simple-minded, childish and oftentimes selfish. The characters of Mouse and Mole were played by Richard Briers and Alan Bennett respectively. The character of Mole was originally to be played by Stephen Fry, but shortly before the recording session, Fry became unavailable, and Alan Bennett stepped in on the proviso that he would step aside should Fry become available. 8ce1353d6a Some would say Mouse and Mole are a knockoff of Rat and Mole from the 1908 Kenneth Grahame... 8ce1353d6a Although the southern marsupial mole was probably known by Aboriginal Australians for thousands of years, the first specimen examined by the scientific community was collected in 1888. Stockman W. Coulthard made the discovery on Idracowra Pastoral Lease in the Northern Territory by following some unusual prints that led him to the animal lying under a tussock. Not knowing what to do with the strange creature, he wrapped it in a kerosene soaked rag, placed it in a revolver cartridge box and forwarded it to E. C. Stirling, the Director of the South Australian Museum. Due to the poor transportation conditions of the time, the specimen reached its destination in a badly decomposed state. Hence, Stirling was unable to find any evidence of the... 8ce1353d6a
