Cities also organize people, create norms, beliefs, and values. As outlined by Max Weber in his book, The City, "There are five things that make a city: fortification, market, a law code, an association of urban citizenry creating a sense of municipal corporateness, and sufficient political autonomy for urban citizens to choose the city's governors." In some countries, elites have built themselves enclaves outside of the central city (e.g. white flight in the United States). 8027121912 == Selection process == 8027121912 National capital of culture, in Serbia, title awarded annually to a city 8027121912
