Month 53 A month is a unit of time, used with calendars, that is approximately as long as a natural phase cycle of the Moon; the words month and Moon are cognates. Synodic months, based on the Moon's orbital period with respect to the Earth-Sun line, are still the basis of many calendars today and are used to divide the year. From excavated tally sticks, researchers have deduced that people counted days in relation to the Moon's phases as early as the Paleolithic age. The traditional concept of months arose with the cycle of Moon phases; such lunar months ("lunations") are synodic months and last approximately 29. 37 such months in one Earth year. 53 days, making for roughly 12.
