It was inactive at a panel of 98 G protein-coupled receptors (GPCRs), including serotonin, dopamine, and melanocortin receptors, among others. However, at high concentrations in vitro, it inhibited selected GABAA receptors, which may be involved in its effects. Relatedly, it has been labeled in some sources as a "GABAA receptor antagonist". The drug produces pro-sexual effects in rodents, with these effects appearing to be mediated in the medial preoptic area. It is described as a potential first-in-class medication. The substances most widely used in self-medication are over-the-counter drugs and dietary supplements, which are used to treat common health issues at home. It is thought to be derived from the French Dame Jeanne (Lady Jane), a term still used to describe this type of bottle. In the Spanish-speaking countries, Dame Jeanne was transformed into "damajuana", or Dama Juana and later, in the Dominican Republic, into Mama Juana (mother Jane). There are many different variations of recipes to make Mamajuana, since the name refers to the container or bottle originally used to prepare and store the maceration, rather than to the finished product itself. cc0ccb8c0c
